

This year, more than ever, dancers from all over the world joined the great CBA weekend from their respective countries, dancing together and being part of the big event, even if they lived hundreds of miles away. Here's the account of three different people in Sweden who had the best CBA time!

Lycklig Crystal Boots!

Annika (Vegby)

Annika joined forces with Monica from Shooting Kickers in creating her own CBA for her dancers from Stepturn. Annika says, "I am the technical nerd and Monica the coffee maker, balloon blower, table arranger and all round everything else! I really could have not done anything like this without her help."

The two friends set their own CBA event in a large and unusual venue. "We chose an old cinema and attended the workshops and the fun of the day upstairs. Sometimes we were with you and sometimes our own social took over... a great day that everyone enjoyed." Then in the evening the dancers had a three course dinner and afterwards, everyone went downstairs to the cinema to watch the show on the big screen.

Annika says, "Everyone was handed out a bag of mandatory popcorn and again this was such a WOW evening for us all to be part of!" The dancers had another hour of social dancing before their CBA event ended...

Annika says: "The sound and angles were great, we could see and hear everything that went on. This day will become a permanent fixture for our club and it is truly amazing to know we were all somehow together from across the globe watching you having fun and us be part of that fun too!"

So in our second year of webcasting the CBA, Linedancer Magazine seems to have pleased a lot of Line dancers who just cannot be with us physically that night. Did you join us from afar this year? Are you planning to in 2014? Let us know by dropping us an email: editor@linedancermagazine.com
